Dr. C. C. Ferrell.

The tragic death of Clifton Ferrell at Birmingham, Ala., Sunday morning, has caused a profound feeling of sorrow in Hopkinsville. Although he had not lived here for many years he was known to everybody by reason of his frequent visits to his father, the late Maj. J. O. Ferrell, and of more recent years to his mother. His boyhood was spent here and many of his former schoolmates attended his funeral services yesterday. Dr. Ferrell was one of the best educated men Hopkinsville has turned out in a generation. He was a scholar of profound learning and as an author had written a number of books that attracted wide attention. As an educator he had reached a high position, when he decided to enter commercial life. To his widowed and now childless mother, the sympathies of many warm friends are extended.

Bluegrass Farmers To Be Brought to Christian County.

TO LEARN A FEW THINGS
Geoffrey Morgan Has Demonstration Plan To Show What Can Be Done.

In order that the people of the bluegrass section may get a fair idea of what a fine country western Kentucky really is and what a progressive lot of farmers live here, Geoffrey Morgan, formerly farm demonstrator for Christian county, but now district supervisor of farm demonstrators for about fifteen central Kentucky counties, with his headquarters at Richmond, Ky., is arranging to bring a big party of farm demonstrators and farmers from that section down here for a visit. He has picked out Warren and Christian counties as the ones to be visited. In a long letter to the Hopkinsville Business Men's Association he outlines his plan, and says the party will leave Lexington on a special train of sleepers on June 1, reaching Bowling Green on the morning of June 2 and spend the day there and then come here for the next day.

In each county he purposes that the local commercial clubs provide automobiles to carry the party to points of interest in the counties visited, and that in Bowling Green they be given a big strawberry dinner and at Hopkinsville they be given a barbecue. Also any other entertainment may be provided.

Mr. Morgan says that this plan has the enthusiastic endorsement of the United States agricultural department, which has agreed to pay the expenses of each of the twenty-two farm demonstrators now employed in central Kentucky counties. In addition he proposes to bring not less than four farmers from each county, and they must agree before coming to write articles for their local papers when they return home. In his letter Mr. Morgan says: "Their idea of Christian county is a land of sassafras bushes and sage grass, night riders, 'possum hunters and other disturbances. I have become weary of this, and so have hit upon a plan to disillusion their minds and introduce them to the 'Modera Garden of Eden.'"

The proposition has met with enthusiastic acceptance both here and at Bowling Green, and it seems already assured that it will be carried out, and the visit of the bluegrass farmers will be a memorable occasion.

B. Gordon Nelson of the Kentucky Corn Club department, whose home is here, is actively co-operating with Mr. Morgan in working the matter up.

Crawley Vass.

Herbert Vass and Miss Mary Lee Crawley stole a march on their friends Wednesday afternoon by going to Evansville, where they were married. The young people came to Henderson several months ago from Hopkinsville. Miss Crawley had been doing some sewing, while Mr. Vass holds a position in the Hotel Kingdon barbershop. They were lovers before coming to Henderson and their marriage was not a surprise to their close personal friends. Wednesday they went to Evansville, secured a license and were married in the afternoon. They returned to Henderson on the 7 o'clock traction and went to the bride's boarding house at R. S. Eastin's, on Maple avenue, before telling any one of their marriage. For the present they will board at Mr. Eastin's and may go to housekeeping later. Both are quite popular and have a host of friends both here and Hopkinsville, who wish them much happiness through life. —Gleaner.

A FATAL CRAP GAME

Dead Body of Cross Billingsly Found Early Sunday Morning.

AT WHEATLAND GRANGE HALL
Three Negroes in Jail Awaiting Trial Next Thursday.

Cross Billingsly, a young negro man about 25 years of age, was found dead near the road close to the Wheatland Grange Hall, at 2 o'clock Sunday morning. The discovery was made by Dick Moore, who reported the fact at once. Billingsly had last been seen with two other negroes named Ed Sanders and Wallace Goodrich and as soon as he could reach the scene Sunday morning Sheriff Jewell Smith went to Mr. P. B. Pendleton's, where they lived, and took both men into custody. Upon reaching the city they acknowledged the killing, but said that the fatal wound was made by Calvin Yancey, an ex-convict. Sheriff Smith made a return trip and arrested Yancey.

The killing grew out of a crap game, is the report, and on the spot where the body was found there was evidence of a struggle. Billingsly's clothing was torn and the only wound was a knife thrust 2 or 3 inches below the collar-bone, on the right side, that severed an artery. The supposition is that one or more held him while he was knifed, as he was a powerful man, weighing 200 pounds. An inquest was held and the verdict implicated Sanders and Goodrich. M. H. Carroll was foreman. Yancey has recently been a day hand at F. B. Lacy's. Billingsly lived at Ben Bradshaw's. All three of the men are in jail and the examining trial will be held Thursday.

JUGULAR VEIN CUT

Negro Man Survives a Most Dangerous Knife Wound.

Frank Davie, who resides on Mr. Frank Stowe's farm, near Church Hill, had his throat cut Saturday afternoon while in the city. Davie declined to say who cut him, stating that two other negroes were in a fight and in attempting to separate them he received the wound. The gash in his neck was six inches long and the jugular was severed. He lost much blood and it took quick work of a surgeon to stop the flow. It took fifteen stitches to close the wound, after both ends of the jugular been tied.

Davie was able to be taken to his home the same afternoon and the chances are that he will recover.

DR. FERRELL ASSASSINATED

Shot To Death By A Negro Seeking To Rob Commissary.

KILLED WHEN HE APPEARED.
Remains Brought Here For Internment Yesterday Afternoon.

Mr. Ferrell had taken his wife and children into Birmingham that morning and had returned in the afternoon. Late in the night he heard a suspicious noise about the commissary, which was in a separate building near the dwelling house. He arose and went out to investigate, firing a pistol into the ground to frighten off the thief. A negro man was under the commissary armed with a shotgun and fired upon him with both barrels. One load took effect in his left arm and the other in the left side of his bowels. He lived fifteen minutes, conscious to the last.

Dogs were put on the trail at once and went straight to the cabin of a negro man who was found feigning sleep with a shotgun in his house and his shoes still wet with dew. A negro man had been seen to run away. He had a fifteen-year-old boy with him, who had been playing about the mines only the day before.

Both negroes were arrested and the lynching of the murderer was narrowly averted.

The body accompanied by Mrs. Ferrell, Maj. Taliaferro, his father-in-law, and Mr. George Connors, his cousin, arrived here yesterday morning. It was met by a number of friends and taken to the home of Mrs. J. O. Ferrell, on South Main street.

Chiles Clifton Ferrell was born near Greenville, S. C., August 20, 1865. He was the only son and child of James Overton and Elizabeth Austin Ferrell. He was 8 years old when his father came to Hopkinsville and his education was begun in his father's school here from 1875 to 1881. He graduated from Vanderbilt University with A. B. degree in 1885 and with A. M. the following year. He was instructor of Greek in Vanderbilt from 1885 to 1889. In 1889 he became a student at the University of Leipzig, Germany, from which he took the degree of Ph. D. in 1892. He traveled extensively in Great Britain, Germany, Switzerland, Austria and Italy and in 1894 took a course in Paris and in 1902 returned to Berlin for a summer course. He became professor in modern languages at the University of Mississippi, at Oxford, in 1903 and remained there until 1907. He was a member of the Modern Language Association of America, and was a member of the Vanderbilt Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. He was married at Birmingham, Ala., August 16, 1899 to Miss Tenney, Marr Taliaferro, who survives him. Of three children born to them two survive, Chiles Clifton, Jr., age 9 and James Overton, aged 3.

In 1907 Mr. Ferrell gave up his work as an educator and went into business with his father-in-law in Birmingham. Since that time he had moved to a suburb of Birmingham, 25 miles out, and was engaged in coal mining, having recently opened the Pratt mine. Funeral services were held at the First Baptist church at 3:30 o'clock by Rev. C. M. Thompson and the interment was in Riverside cemetery.

The pall-bearers were former schoolmates of the deceased or pupils of his father—Geo. E. Gary, Ira L. Smith, R. M. Wooldridge, W. A. Glass, A. W. Wood, R. A. Rogers, W. T. Cooper and Chas. M. Meacham.

M'DERMOTT ON STUMP

Presents His Claims to the Voters of Christian County.

HEARD BY GOOD CROWD.
Able Lieutenant Governor Has Many Warm Friends Here.

Lieut. Gov. Edward J. McDermott spoke here yesterday afternoon in the interest of his candidacy for Governor. Mr. McDermott arrived on an early train and spent the forenoon meeting the people on the streets. He was introduced by Judge Walter Knight and the crowd that greeted him was large and representative. This brief article cannot go into a detailed report of his speech, which was published in the daily papers of Sunday. It was substantially a repetition of the Owensboro speech of Saturday.

Mr. McDermott makes a strong presentation of his claims, based on his familiarity with State affairs and his knowledge of the state's needs. He defined his position on the prohibition question as an original advocate of the present platform of the party.

Gov. McDermott is popular in this county, his ability and fitness for the honor he seeks being admitted by all.

DIED IN SPRINGFIELD

Remains of Richard Harris Interred Here Yesterday.

Richard Harrison, formerly of this city, died in Springfield, Tenn., Sunday, after a long illness of paralysis. The remains were brought here yesterday morning and interred in Riverside Cemetery.

Mr. Harrison was a son of the late Byron Harrison and was reared in this city. He resided in Earlington some years ago and later lived in Providence, Ky. He had been a resident of Springfield for several years.

The deceased was about 60 years old. His wife and one child survive.

part of the county was shot to death this morning about 1:30 o'clock when went to investigate barking by his little dog, suspecting that the commissary of the company was being robbed.

Several times recently the store of the company had been broken into and Dr. Ferrell, who resided across the road from the store, decided to keep a close watch. Hearing the dog this morning he rushed hastily to the outside of the house with a pistol and then two shots were heard, one of a pistol and the other of a shotgun. Dr. Ferrell was picked up later mortally wounded with buckshot wounds in head and chest, from which he died forty minutes later.

Two negroes charged with the crime were arrested and held.

Dr. Ferrell graduated at Heidelberg and for twelve years was professor of Germanic languages in the University of Mississippi. He married Miss Tennie Taliaferro of Birmingham, and is survived by a widow and two little sons. He came to Birmingham district and went into the coal mining business a few years ago. His remains were taken to Hopkinsville, Ky., for burial.

Yesterday's Nashville Tennessean said of him: "Dr. Ferrell was a brilliant student at Vanderbilt and was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa honorary fraternity after that fraternity was founded here. He was well-known in Nashville, especially to the older Vanderbilt graduates, some of his classmates still living in Nashville. News of his death will be received with sorrow in Nashville and Hopkinsville, his old home."

SINK GERMAN TORPEDOBOATS

British Destroyers More Than Even Up Scores in North Sea.

ONE ENGLISH WARSHIP SUNK.
Three Merchant Vessels, Including One American, Are Destroyed.

London, May 3.—A German submarine on Saturday sank the old British destroyer Recruit off the Galloper lightship, in the North sea, but the score was more than equalized by other British destroyers, which, after a stern chase overtook and sank the two German torpedo boats that had accompanied the submarine on her cruise.

Some of the crew of the Recruit were rescued by the trawler Daisy, but as the submarine fired on the fishermen they were compelled to leave the others to their fate. The British destroyers rescued most of the crews of the German torpedo boats and two officers were picked up by a passing steamer and taken to Holland.

Besides these incidents in the North sea the German submarines continued their operations off the Scilly Islands and in addition to torpedoing the American tank steamer Gulfight whose captain died of shock and on which two men were drowned, sank the French steamer Europe and the British steamer Fulgent, the captain of the latter vessel being shot and killed.

Beyond this there is little war news. The Germans claim an advance in their raid into the Russian Baltic provinces, and after defeating the Russians, to have reached the region southwest of Mitau, which is well on the road to Riga, and, if they are in strong force, they should prove a serious menace to Russian communications. It is believed here, however, that the movement is nothing more than a raid, and the Russians profess not to be disturbed over it.

There has been no further bombardment of Dunkirk, which would seem to indicate that the Germans only had one big gun in position, and that the French airmen have made it so uncomfortable for the gun crew that it has been withdrawn. As a reply to this bombardment the French have brought one of their big guns to bear on one of the forts on the south front of the fortress of Metz.

Along the rest of the western front, attacks and counter attacks continue, but no battle of importance has developed out of them.

It appears that the Turkish report that the Asiatic part of the Dardanelles is free of the invaders was correct, the French having gone ashore there only to make the landing of the British on the other side easier, and this accomplished, have been withdrawn, doubtless to land at some other point. News of these operations is awaited with the greatest interest, as, for the moment, they are considered among the most important of the war.

The British steamer Mobile, and the trawler, Lily Dale, have been sunk by a German submarine, off the coast of Scotland.

The allies are making substantial headway in the Dardanelles, the land forces having captured the city of Gallipoli, on the peninsula. Conflicting reports are sent out from Constantinople.

Rodman Sherrard, twenty-nine years old, and W. Gordon Holland, thirty four were killed in Hardin county Friday, at the public crossing at Vine Grove, when an I. C. passenger train struck the auto in which they were riding.

German battleships are evidently ignoring the English blockade and are at large in the North sea. The latest report is that Dunkirk, a coast town, was shelled Friday and 20 persons killed and 45 wounded by 19 shells of large calibre fired upon the town.

More than half the city of Colon was swept by a disastrous fire Friday afternoon. Ten persons are known to be dead, including two native policemen, and several hundred persons have been injured, while between 10,000 and 12,000 others, mostly negroes, have been rendered homeless. The loss is estimated at about $2,000,000. The fire destroyed twenty-two building blocks.

Reports received from various cities in the south indicate that practically every daily newspaper, which a year ago printed a story alleging that Mrs. Mary Craig Sinclair, wife of Upton Sinclair, the novelist, had been arrested in New York, was being sued for damages ranging from $10,000 to $50,000, suits being brought in the various cities on telegraphic request from Mrs. Sinclair's attorneys in Mississippi. The article complained of stated that Upton Sinclair, his wife and several other persons had been arrested in connection with a demonstration in front of the building where John D. Rockefeller had his offices. The demonstration was said to have been intended as a protest against alleged conditions in the Colorado coal strike region. The report stated however, that Mrs. Sinclair had been released.

QUESTION CLEARED UP

Hopkinsville Readers Can No Longer Doubt The Evidence.

Again and again we have read of strangers in distant towns who have been cured by this or that medicine. But Hopkinsville's pertinent question has always been "Has anyone here in Hopkinsville been cured?" The word of a stranger living a hundred miles away may be true, but it cannot have the same weight with us as the word of our own citizens whom we know and respect, and whose evidence we can so easily prove.

Paying the Spled.

Louis XVIII must have been sincerely grateful for the institution of spies. Shortly after the restoration he asked Fouché, his minister of police (who had filled the same office under Napoleon) whether he had been efficiently spied upon during his exile in England. After a considerable amount of pressing, Fouché admitted that one of the members of the royal household, the Duc de Blacas, used to furnish regular reports concerning his master's movements. "How much did you pay for his services?" inquired the king. "A fixed allowance of £8,000 a year," was the reply. "I am glad to hear you say that," said the king. "We arranged to divide his earnings as a spy, and so long as he was working for you I used to draw £4,000 a year. It is comforting to learn that he didn't cheat me."—London Chronicle.

Read in this timely, authoritative, complete, AND THE ONLY CONDENSED classic world history—of which over 2,000,000 copies have been sold in France alone—just what has taken place in the inner councils of Europe during the past one hundred years. Read in these entrancing pages how Russia has for years craftily been trying to escape from her darkness—to get a year-round open port, with its economic freedom. Read how Germany and Austria, fearful of the monster's latent strength, have been trying to checkmate her and how they have pinned all in this last, supreme stake.

The Lesson of the Past

This master of the pen shows you the glory that was Greece's and the grandeur that was Rome's. He guides you through the Middle Ages, the picturesque old days of feudalism and the crusades through the Renaissance up to contemporaneous history, which Prof. Duruy's complete in brilliant manner. In the story of the past lie the secrets of today. And you will understand them better when you get the Review of Reviews for a year—for the Review of Reviews will give you a sane interpretation of the events that are taking place with such rapidity. It is not enough to read the daily news reports. Your ability to comprehend conditions, and to discuss them rationally depends on a true interpretation of the meaning and the "reason why" of events. In your mind you must bring order out of chaos—and the Review of Reviews will do it for you.

BIRDS DESTROY MANY HARMFUL INSECTS

Crow Blackbird (Quiscalus, Quiscalia).

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In the spring the crow blackbird (or grackle) follows the plow in search of large grubs and literally crams its stomach with this pest which is so annoying to the farmer. During the breeding season also this bird does much good by eating insects and by feeding them to its young, which are reared almost entirely on this food.

The crow blackbird or grackle in one or more of its subspecies is a familiar object in all the states east of the Rocky mountains. In the Mississippi valley it is one of the most abundant of birds, preferring to nest in the artificial groves and windbreaks near farms instead of in the natural "timber" which it formerly used. It breeds also in parks and near buildings, often in considerable colonies. Farther east, in New England, it is only locally abundant, though frequently seen in migration. In the latter days of August and throughout September it is found in immense numbers before moving southward.

The grackle is accused of many sins, such as stealing grain and fruit and robbing the nests of other birds. An examination of 2,346 stomachs shows that nearly one-third of its food consists of insects, most of which are injurious. The bird also eats a few snails, crawfishes, salamanders, small fish, and occasionally a mouse. It is on account of its vegetable food that the grackle most deserves condemnation. Grain is eaten during the whole year, and only for a short time in summer is other food attacked.

Barn Swallow.

tive enough to induce the bird to alter its diet. The grain taken in winter and spring probably consists of waste kernels from the stubble. The stomachs do not indicate that the bird pulls sprouting grain; but the wheat eaten in July and August and the corn eaten in fall are probably from fields of standing grain. The total amount of grain consumed during the year constitutes 45 per cent of the food, but it is safe to say that at least half is waste grain and consequently of no value. Although the crow blackbird eats a few cherries and blackberries in their season, and in the fall some wild fruit, it apparently does no damage in this way.

Swallows That Have Attached Themselves to Abodes of Man.

There are seven common species of swallows in the United States and four of these have already abandoned their primitive nesting habits to some extent and attached themselves to the abodes of man. The swallow is one of the important birds described in the new Farmers' Bulletin (639) of the United States department of agriculture, entitled "Some Common Birds Cautel to the Farmer."

The presence of swallows should be encouraged by every device, says the department's scientist. Barn swallows may be encouraged by cutting a small hole in the gable of the barn, while martins and white-bellied swallows will be grateful for boxes placed in a high situation.

Cliff and barn swallows, it is said, may be induced to build their nests in a suitable locality by providing a quantity of mud to be used as mortar. It is a mistake to tear from the eaves of a barn the nests of a colony of cliff swallows, for in addition to the fact that this bird destroys large numbers of injurious and annoying insects, the nests are picturesque rather than ugly.

In the eastern part of the country the barn swallow now builds exclusively under roofs, having entirely abandoned the rock caves and cliffs in which it formerly nested. More recently the cliff swallow has found a better nesting site under the eaves of buildings than was afforded by the overhanging cliffs of earth or stone which it once used and to which it still resorts occasionally in the East and habitually in the unsettled West. The martin and the white-bellied, or tree, swallow nest either in houses supplied for the purpose, in abandoned nests of woodpeckers, or in natural crannies in rocks. The northern violet-green swallow, the rough-winged swallow, and the bank swallow still live in practically such places as their ancestors chose.

Field observation convinces an ordinarily attentive person that the food of swallows must consist of the smaller insects captured in midair or picked from the tops of tall grass or weeds. This observation is borne out by an examination of stomachs, which shows that the food is made up of many small species of beetles which are much on the wing; many species of mosquitoes and their allies, together with large quantities of flying ants; and a few insects of similar kinds.

Unlike many other groups of birds, the six species of swallows found in the eastern states extend in a practically unchanged form across the continent, where they are re-enforced by the northern, or Pacific coast, violet green swallow.

HOW TO SHIP HATCHING EGGS

Most Important Thing is to Satisfy Customers—Neat, Attractive Package is Pleasing.

The most important thing is to satisfy your customers by giving them exactly what you advertise to sell, or even doing a little better.

If eggs are broken in transit do not hesitate to replace them the day you receive the complaint from your customer.

Give everybody a square deal and remember that a satisfied customer is always a customer.

A neat, attractive package may cost a trifle more than a slovenly one, but it will please your customers and advertise your egg business, because customers very often judge a man's business by first impressions of package and contents when they are received.

The best package for shipping eggs is a basket, although many breeders do not use them.

The basket should hold one or two settings, and these can be got for two cents from any manufacturer. A thick layer of excelsior should cover the bottom, and all eggs should be wrapped in soft paper and so packed with fine excelsior that they will not touch each other.

When the eggs are packed put another layer of excelsior over the top and cover with a thin board.

Next to the basket is the egg box made for holding 13 or 15 eggs. This is arranged with cardboard compartments with room for excelsior or other packing at the top and bottom.

This box is provided with a wire handle and the cover slides into grooves which may then be screwed or tacked down with small nails.

Never ship a package that is not screwed or nailed down, because this will save eggs from being flung by curious persons who can open the package in transit.

Never ship a soiled egg. Nothing so disgusts a customer as to receive a setting of eggs which are dirty and of poor shape.

Eggs should be selected so that each setting will be uniform in size shape and color when possible.

Give Fowls Oyster Shell.

Some say that oyster shell is only suitable for egg-shell material and will not do for fat. As a matter of fact nearly all kinds of poultry will eat oyster shell at all seasons of the year. Growing chicks, goslings and ducklings have no use for egg-shell consequently their liking for it argues that they need it to grind their food.

Peas and Oats

Canada field peas and oats sown at the rate of about 1½ bushels of each per acre, as early as the ground will permit, will furnish good early pasture.

VERY LIGHT WAS VOTE

School Elections Passed Off
Without a Ripple of Excitement.

The school election Saturday brought out the lighter vote on record. L. E. Fowler, T. W. Morris and J. H. Cate had no opposition and only a scattering vote was cast. Last year when an exciting race was held hundreds of votes were cast, the winners receiving more than 500. This time the total vote was less than 80. The vote in detail was as follows:

L. E. Fowler 75.
T. W. Morris 75.
J. H. Cate 75.

Their terms are for three years.

Colored Election.

Frank Boyd and Wm. Norman, the two trustees of the colored schools whose terms were out, were re-elected without opposition for the second time. They were original appointees five years ago and are elected for three years more.

DR. BEAZLEY Specialist (Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat.)

Jean H. E. St. Cyr, a natty young fellow of 28, has just married the elderly widow of "Silent" Smith, in New York, who is believed to be worth $40,000,000. Three years ago the young man married Mrs. May Redfield, aged 60, widow of a Hartford banker. She died last January of pneumonia and cut him off with $1,000. He hasn't grieved for her long.

American Walnut.

So beautiful and durable a wood as walnut never would have gone out of favor if it had been rightly handled. It was a victim of machine-made "decoration." It was done to death by the meaningless curlicues with which it was "adorned." If the artisans of today will eschew such mistakes, abjure their effort to make wood glitter like glass and treat walnut as they do oak or mahogany, there is no reason why this peculiarly American product should not keep a high and permanent place in cabinetmaking.

MATINEE RACES FINE

Lively Competition In All
Five of The Rings Last Saturday.

The first matinee races were held Saturday at the Fairgrounds and a good crowd was on hand, great interest being shown. All of the races were well filled and there was lively competition. Following were the results, all half mile dashes:

Class A. Pace—Three entries, won by Joe Gregory's black Annie. Time 1.09 1/2. 1.09. Buck Campbell's horse second, Tom Garnett's third.

Class A. Trot—Elmo Lacy's horse won first. W. G. Jones second, J. T. Johnson third. Four entries.

Class B. Trot—Will Summers first, Clerdy and King tie for second and John Combs third. Four entries.

Class B. Pace—A. E. Keeling first, Low Johnson, Jr., second, Ben Winfree third. Four entries.

Green trot or Pace—Burnett first, Sam Campbell second, Lawrence Draper third. Six entries.

Why the Blues?

Everyone loves the blue sky, with its brightness, warmth and softness. Hundreds have written of it in glowing terms of praise, while the inarticulate millions have felt what they expressed. Who does not love a pair of blue eyes? Laughing blue eyes, true blue eyes, tender blue eyes, Irish blue eyes. The men who follow the sea love her every mood and hue, and yet 'tis her sparkling sapphire cloak they would have her don on the happiest occasions. "It is impossible, in our condition of society, not to be sometimes a snob," wrote Thackeray—not to have a heart that would relish pumping a little blue blood along with the red. But when our thoughts are dull, depressed and drear like an unkind wintry sky, we are in the blues. Why this paradoxical defamation of the color which is associated with so many of the fair and pleasing things of life? If we must vilify a color, there are yellow canaries and jaundice; there are yellow devils and danger. Why the blues?—Boston Globe.

An Umbrella Hint.

Before using a new umbrella or sunshade rub a small quantity of vaseline into the hinge portions of the frame. This will not run like oil, and it is a sure preventive against rust.

SECRET OF SUCCESS WITH VEGETABLES

Do Not Plan a Garden Larger Than You Can Keep Clean and Well Tilled.

(By W. MILTON KELLY.)

The one great secret of having success with the family vegetable garden is to provide an abundance of plant-food in a readily available form. Stable or barnyard manures are the best fertilizers at all times.

Commercial plant-foods are excellent in their places, especially when it is desired to force some of the early varieties of vegetables, but their use requires that the soil be in a high state of tilth and that the gardener have an expert knowledge of their uses and functions.

To properly prepare a garden I believe in plowing under a heavy application of manure in the fall, and then in the spring harrowing in another heavy coat of well-rotted manure. After putting on what we think is enough we double the amount and the chances are we will have it about right.

Constant cultivation should be the rule, for this will keep the soil in an ideal condition, physically, for the roots to grow in, besides keeping the weeds in check. Allowing the weed seeds to germinate and quickly destroying them early in the season will save a large amount of work during the summer, besides conserving much needed moisture.

Eliminate all of the old-fashioned beds and plant everything in long rows, so that most of the cultivation can be done with a horse. There need not be an unpleasant amount of hand work if properly worked with a horse and cultivator.

Leave plenty of room at the ends for turning around with the horse while cultivating.

Do not plan a larger garden than you can keep clean and well tilled. A small garden will supply an abundance of vegetables for a large family.

After the soil has been well enriched and well fitted we are ready to plant. If the plan has been well worked out all that is necessary is to plant each variety at the proper time in the right place.

The family garden should be planned to suit the needs of the family, and no two families will agree as to the amount of each kind of vegetables to grow. The time to plant varies so largely with the locality that I will offer no advice as to dates of planting. The date also varies with the season.

If we will study out the time it requires each crop to mature we may be able to plan other crops to take their place as soon as they are consumed.

A few crops like blood beets, eggplant, melons, onions, peppers, tomatoes, and winter squash, require a whole season to mature. Other crops like lettuce, radishes, early beets, summer squash and string beans will mature early enough to allow other crops to be grown on the same soil after they are gone.

The great object in doing this in the farmer's garden is to keep the soil from growing a rank growth of weeds later in the season.

It is not my purpose to advise which varieties to grow. Study the seed catalogues, talk with successful gardeners in your own locality, and form your own conclusions.

I should do more harm than good by commending varieties for all localities. Get interested in the garden early by sending for the various seed catalogues and garden implement catalogues. Good seed means success, and good garden implements are a pleasure to handle.

CARING FOR SPRING LITTERS

Considerable Attention Is Necessary, but There Is Nothing Difficult Connected With Task.

Pig feeding and pig care is mostly made up of common sense matters like seeing that the mother is properly fed, the youngsters sheltered as they ought to be, and that they do not get chilled during the first few days of their lives. This takes considerable care and watching, but there is nothing about it that anyone cannot do.

Feeding the little pigs is a job that falls to the mother for the first two or three weeks of their lives. If she is in vigorous health prior to the coming of the pigs, this part of the job will take care of itself. When the pigs show an inclination to try to eat when the sow is fed then the hog grower will have to bestir himself and make ready to take care of their growing appetites.

During the first days of the pig's life he will have to be watched to see that he does not get the life crushed out of him against the sides of the pen and that he does not wander outside and freeze to death. Properly built pens and hog houses will take care of this part of the job. Where the sow is kept in a big hoghouse her pen should be so tightly built that the little fellows cannot slip out into the other pens. There ought to be a sort of a fender around the walls of the pen, so the pig cannot be caught against the wall by the sow.

When the weather is very cold, some sort of an arrangement whereby the litter can come in a reasonably warm house should be made. A great many pigs are lost every winter through exposure in bitterly cold weather. Some hog raisers put artificial heat in their houses and keep them warmed up for the first four or five days after the litter comes. This cannot be done on the average farm, but a good warm place can be provided.

The Dead Canes.

Raspberry and blackberry growers have a task that comes in no other kind of fruit growing, says New York State Farmer. To be sure there are thinning and trimming in all fruit plantations or orchards, but the cane-fruit men must go over the patches.

Best Place for Nests.

The nests may be placed on the side walls or under the dropping boards. It is best to have them darkened, as hens prefer a secluded place in which to lay.

STONE BEST FOR FOUNDATION

More Satisfactory Than When Built on Wooden Base—Will Prevent All Leakages.

If it is necessary to use a storage tank for water pressure on the farm, a tank built on the ground with a stone foundation will be found much more satisfactory than if built upon a wooden base. Some farmers have storage tanks built in the tops of horns, but an occasional overflow or a little leakage will soon prove disastrous, for this will rot the timbers underneath. A stone foundation will prevent this trouble.

WAY OF PREPARING POULTRY

French Method Acknowledged Superior to Others—Each Carcass Is Shown With Back Up.

The French method of preparing poultry for the market is acknowledged, in some respects, superior to others.

The birds are made very fat and plump and are manipulated to increase plumpness.

A few feathers are left on the tail and neck. The skin is white and delicate.

Each carcass is tied with a ribbon and is shown back upmost instead of breast up, according to the American and English method.

Secret of Egg Scarcity.

One of the secrets of egg scarcity is overfeeding and laziness. Nearly all owners keep their laying hens too fat and give them too little exercise. In winter there should be quite a variety of food, chosen with a view to supplying egg ingredients.

"I find Peruna an excellent spring and summer medicine and am glad to call the attention of my friends to it. I know by experience that Peruna is a good medicine, and always recommend it whenever I have an opportunity. I can truthfully say that I have no traces of my old complaint, and have neither ache nor pain, and enjoy life. Words cannot express my appreciation for the good Peruna has done me."

PERUNA THE SPRING AND SUMMER MEDICINE.

"I used to get cramps in my stomach. I had sick headaches. My stomach nearly killed me. My family physician only gave me temporary relief. I got out of patience and had given up all hopes of recovery. I then wrote to Dr. Hartman and he advised me to take Peruna. I got a bottle of Peruna and commenced using it. Soon got better and am now entirely cured and feel like a new woman. Peruna is my comfort. I will never be without it." Mrs. Thomas M. Morgan, R. F. D. 2, Wadsworth, Ohio.

HEAVY LOSS IN OFFICERS

6,227 Have Been Killed, Wounded or are Missing, Says Official Casualty List.

LONDON, Apr. 13.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—An officers' casualty list for the fortnight ended April 10, shows that the British army lost 46 officers killed and 110 wounded—a total of 156 during the fortnight.

The casualties in only one regiment exceeded double figures—namely the Royal Engineers, which had 3 killed and 8 wounded.

Since the beginning of the war 1,961 officers have been killed, 5,528 wounded, and 738 are reported missing bringing the total up to 6,227.

IRVING LONG TOP-NOTCHER

Narrowly Missed Being The World's Champion Billiard Player.

The Chicago Tribune had this mention of a Hopkinsville boy who died there last week:

"Irving Long, a well-known figure in the pocket billiards world, died yesterday afternoon at St. Luke's hospital of ptomaine poisoning. He became ill nine days ago. Long was born in Kentucky 42 years ago. He started his billiard career when 16 years of age at the old Brevort here.

In March, 1902, he competed in the world's championship staged by Clarence Green at Brooklyn and took fifth place, Clearwater winning on the playoff of a tie with Weston. Until two years ago Long conducted a room in Nashville, Tenn., in which city he will be buried. He was a regular attendant at the matches played during the world's three cushion tournament here last month."

The Record Herald also gave this notice of his death:

"Irving (Kid) Long, well-known and popular in sporting circles, died yesterday at noon at St. Luke's Hospital of ptomaine poisoning. Only a few years since Long was rated one of the best pocket billiard players in the country and he took part in more than one championship tournament. He had a host of friends and all through life made a practice of helping the 'down-and-out.' Long was born in Hopkinsville, Ky., forty-two years ago. The remains will be shipped to his mother's home at Nashville, Tenn., for burial."

In a letter to the Kentuckian, William J. Cowan, of Chicago, himself a Hopkinsville boy, adds this tribute:

"Long was esteemed very highly by all his many friends, and was undoubtedly the best liked man in the billiard fraternity, and was rated among the high-class pocket billiard players as one of the top notchers. He was only beaten three balls by DeOran in a world's championship. I felt that Hopkinsville should know how highly it was represented in the art of billiards."

CAPT. L. D. HOCKERSMITH'S Served With Gen. Morgan In Every Engagement Until Their Capture and Thrilling Es- cape at Columbus.

Capt. Lorenzo Dow Hockersmith was born in Lawrenceburg, Anderson county, Ky., November 9, 1833. His father was a Pennsylvania Dutchman and his mother was Scotch-Irish. At the age of 9 years he moved with his parents to Louisville. Here he worked with his father as a painter. Soon tiring of this trade he served as an apprentice with Chas. P. Weaver, then a brick contractor, and later Mayor of Louisville.

In 1855 he came to Madisonville and while in the employment of W. O. Hall married his daughter, Miss Mary Hall. He and his fiancée were attending a Methodist conference at Russellville when they were wedded, the Rev. W. W. Cooke, father of Dayton Cooke, of Madisonville, performed the ceremony.

From Madisonville young Hockersmith went to Dixon and while working at his trade there the war between the States broke out. His sympathies being with the South, he, with Col. Adam Johnson and Amphis Owen, joined the Confederate army. Hockersmith and his companions became members of the Tenth Kentucky Cavalry, part of Gen. John H. Morgan's famous command, and later Hockersmith became Captain of Company C, succeeding Capt. Walls, who lost his life in an engagement in Tennessee. At the close of the war he was a Lieutenant Colonel.

At Gen. Morgan's Wedding.

Capt. Hockersmith joined Gen. Morgan at Paris, Tenn., and was present at the marriage of Gen. Morgan and Miss Ready at Murfreesboro. Capt. Hockersmith was an escort at the wedding.

From then on he was with Morgan in every engagement, until they were captured and escaped from the Columbus penitentiary. He was one of the dashing 100 who followed Col. Bob Martin near Black Shops, Tenn. With these picked men Col. Martin dashed upon a detachment of 6,000 Federals, and they thinking Morgan's whole brigade was upon them, not discovering their mistake until it was too late, fled in confusion, leaving supplies and ammunition behind.

When Gen. Morgan determined on his raid into Ohio and Indiana in the summer of 1862 Capt. Hockersmith and his company were ready for the undertaking. They crossed the river at Brandenburg on July 20, and the consternation produced by the entry of the raiders into the enemy's country is still recalled.

Captured in Ohio.

From the time Morgan and his men crossed the river there was scarcely a day that there was not more or less fighting. After twelve days of marching and fighting a part of the command of which Capt. Hockersmith was a member was captured at Cheshire, O., and in a few days Gen. Morgan and the remainder of the command were taken prisoners at Buffington Island by the Federals and thrown into prison at Johnson's Island. The prisoners gave the Federals so much trouble that the commissioned officers were removed to the penitentiary at Columbus. Gen. Morgan had been taken there when first captured.

Capt. Hockersmith was assigned to a cell on the ground floor and Gen. Morgan occupied an upper cell. The Captain, being a brickmason, began to use his knowledge of construction and discovered by tapping the floor that there was a hollow place underneath. He confided his knowledge to his friends, and, securing a knife, began to excavate around the bricks and in a short time discovered that the hollow sound produced by tapping the floor was real and that an underground tunnel was directly under his cell. He at once confided his discovery to Capt. Magee, Sheldon, Taylor, Hines and Col. Dick Morgan, who was a brother of Gen. Morgan.

Digging To Liberty.

The work of digging to liberty began on the night of November 2, 1863, and on the night of the 23rd of the same month the escape was made. In order that Gen. Morgan should escape his brother, Dick Morgan, exchanged cells with the General and remained behind. The men passed the guards and joined the army of the South and all lived to the close of the war, except Gen. Morgan, who was killed at Greenville, Tenn.

Of the men who made their escape from the Columbus penitentiary that November night in 1863, Capt. Hockersmith, the man who planned the escape, was the last survivor and was the last of the seventy men who were in the prison at the time, with the exception of Gen. Basil Duke, of Louisville, Lieut. Col. Coleman, of Lexington, who died January 24, last, was one of the number.

Built Two Churches.

Capt. Hockersmith was not only a soldier, but was a man well beloved by all citizens of Madisonville. He was a member of the Methodist church and erected two churches for this congregation on the same site, building the second structure and when that became too small for the congregation, erecting a third. A fourth building now stands on this site. He was a member of the Masonic order and often presided over the meetings of the order. He was a member of Ritzpah Patrol, of this city, and although very feeble, would often attend the meetings of the Shrine.

Capt. Hockersmith leaves a wife and three children, Mrs. Laura Hayes and William J. Hockersmith, of this city, and Mrs. Effie Tutt, of New Mexico, says a Madisonville dispatch. The burial was Saturday.

DO NOT THROW GARBAGE

IN STREET OR ALLEY.

The streets and alleys of Hopkinsville were created for the purpose of giving the public the privilege of passage over same and not for the public purpose of dumping garbage and litter that may accumulate on your individual premises, so bear in mind that it is a violation of the law to throw garbage into the streets or alleys and while you will be expected to move all filth, which is apt to create nuisance, off of your premises, you must see that it is cared for according to law so that it will injure no one else.

Why Is It?

"Of the 57,000 varieties of things about women's ways that it is impossible for a man to understand," said a quiet observer, "I will mention only one. Why is it that women button on their coats the other way from the way in which a man buttons on his coat? A man's coat is so made that the buttons come on the left side or half of the garment, when it is buttoned. In a woman's coat, the buttons come on the right side. When a woman puts on a man's overcoat the first thing she says is always this: 'Why, it buttons on the wrong way!' Of course, the man thinks that the woman's way is wrong, and the only thing that is certain about it is that the man's coat buttons on one side and the woman's on the other."—New York Courier Pittsburgh Dispatch.

The Bravest Are The Belgians.

At the international congress, of women, at The Hague, Friday, a peace resolution was offered and passed.

In moving the final resolution, Mrs. Rosika Schwimmer, president of the Hungarian Woman's suffrage association, requested that all delegates stand one minute in silent prayer for peace. Mile. Hamer of the Belgian delegation asked permission to utter a few words.

When this was granted she astounded her audience with this dramatic exclamation.

"I am a Belgian before everything and I cannot think as you do. There can be no peace without justice. The war must continue until the Belgians wrongs have been righted. There must be no mediation except at the bar of justice."

General sympathy for the Belgians caused part of the audience to break into cheers.

On the motion of Miss Florence Holbrook of Chicago, the word "justice" was inserted in the resolution, which reads:

The international congress of women, of different nations, creeds, classes and parties, is united in expressing sympathy with the suffering of all, whatever their nationality, who are fighting for their country, or who are laboring under the burden of war. Since the mass of the people of each of the countries now warring believe themselves to be fighting, not aggressively, but in self defense and for their national existence, it urges the governments of the world to put an end to this bloodshed and to begin peace negotiations; and it emphatically demands that the peace which follows, shall be permanent, and therefore, based upon justice and principles which include those adopted by this congress."

Debt Liquidated.

"Well, I've settled that there note I've been owing Jack Gap for so long!" triumphantly stated a prominent citizen of the neighborhood of Rumpus Ridge. "That so?" returned another and equally prominent resident of the same locality. "Where'd you get the money?" "Aw, it didn't take no money! I just shot Gap."—Judge.

Have You Made Your Will?

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside, the national farm paper published at Springfield, Ohio, farmers are advised strongly to make their wills. Stories are told of farmers who, because of their neglect in this matter, have brought great expense to their estates, thus depriving their heirs of funds which were needlessly spent in lawyers' fees and other expenses, simply because the deceased neglected to leave definite word as to his intentions and desires.

The Letter "E."

Someone has advanced the opinion that the letter "e" is the most unfortunate character in the English alphabet, because it is always out of cash, says the Charleston Gazette, forever in debt, never out of danger, and in hell all the time. For some reason, he overlooked the fortunes of the letter, so we will call his attention to the fact that "e" is never in war, always in peace. It is the beginning of existence, the commencement of ease and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no meat, no life and no heaven. It is the center of honesty, makes love perfect and without it there would be no editors, devils nor news.

BRIBERY MAY FLOURISH IF CONDUCTED PROPERLY

Conviction Under Present Law Difficult, Says Appeals Court.

Frankfort, Ky., April 23.—"Until the Legislature sees proper to change the existing law, the bribe giver and the bribe taker, if they are prudent and discreet, may go unpunished," said Judge Carroll today in the opinion of the Court of Appeals, reversing the Pike Circuit Court in the case of W. T. Romes, who had been convicted of selling his vote in the 1913 election for $4, and was fined $150 and disfranchised.

The law requires that where there is a single witness to election bribery there must be "strong corroborative evidence." In this case Don Ramsey testified that he gave Romes $4 upon his promise to vote "the whole Republican ticket." Romes denied it. Will Ramsey testified that Romes had a reputation as a vote seller and said he had bought Romes' vote in the elections of 1908, 1909 and 1912; but the court said "what he did in those years did not corroborate the evidence of Don Ramsey as to what he did in 1913;" that the offense of which he was accused was a "single act, not a part of any scheme or plan." It was not circumstantial evidence, because "circumstantial evidence is that which tends to connect the accused with the particular crime under investigation. When the accused is put on trial, charged with the commission of one distinct offense, having no immediate or circumstantial connection with any other offense or any other person or thing, it is well settled that evidence of the commission of other like offenses is not admissible." Nor, the court said, was it competent to show Romes' general reputation as a bribe taker.

The court continued: "That this legislation makes it extremely difficult to secure the conviction of guilty persons is plain, for bribery is a secret crime, needing only the participation of the bribe giver and bribe taker to complete it, and it seldom occurs that these evildoers commit the offense in public or in the presence of other persons, or under conditions that would permit corroborative evidence of their guilt."

You can't prevent an attack of Rheumatism from coming on, but you can stop it almost immediately. Sloan's Liniment gently applied to the sore joint or muscle penetrates in a few minutes to the inflamed spot that causes the pain. It soothes the hot, tender, swollen feeling, and in a very short time brings a relief that is almost unbelievable until you experience it. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment for 25c of any Druggist and have it in the house—against Colds, Sore and Swollen Joints, Lumbago, Sciatica and like ailments. Your money back if not satisfied, but it does give a most instant relief.

HOW TO HAVE CHICKENS THAT WILL LAY EGGS

In an interesting article in the current issue of Farm and Fireside entitled, "Is Sex an Accident?" appears the following:

"If a splendid layer is mated with an ordinary cock, the pullets will be just ordinary layers, but the cockerels will inherit the egg-laying character of their mother and stamp this on their own daughters, about half of which will be as good layers as their grandmother on their father's side. Just read this sentence over again and it will not appear as complicated as perhaps it did at first."

The lesson from all this is: "If you want your hens to be good layers, always select breeding cocks from the sons of good laying hens."

Let This Soak In.

You remember Noah had to work a long time on the ark. It was up hill business too, at best building a boat on dry land while the local anvil and hammer club sat around spitting tobacco juice upon his lumber, whittling up his pine boards with their jack knives and telling him what a fool he was, expecting rain in a country that was too dry to grow alfalfa, but he kept at it. Finally the flood came and every mother's son of the croakers drowned. This is the only instance we know of where a bunch of knackers got exactly what was coming to them.—Pembroke Journal.

INSIST ON DAY'S HAPPINESS

It is Within the Power of Everyone to Make the Best of the Present Moment.

Just have a little heart-to-heart talk with yourself every morning, and say: "It does not matter what comes or goes today, what happens or what does not happen, there is one thing of which I am sure, and that is, I am going to get the most possible out of the day. I am not going to allow anything to rob me of my happiness, or of my right to live this day from beginning to end, and not merely to exist."

"I do not care what comes, I shall not allow any annoyance, any happening, any circumstances which may cross my path today, to rob me of my peace of mind. I will not be unhappy today, no matter what occurs. I am going to enjoy the day to its full, live the day completely. This day shall be a complete day in my life. I shall not allow the enemies of my happiness to mar it. No misfortune in the past, nothing which has happened to me in days gone by, which has been disagreeable or tragic, no enemies of my happiness or efficiency shall be a guest in my spirit's sacred inclosure today. Only happy thoughts, joy thoughts, only the friends of my peace, comfort, happiness and success, shall find entertainment in my soul this day. None of my enemies shall gain admittance to scrawl their hideous autographs on the walls of my mind. There shall be no admittance today, except to the friends of my best moods. I will tear down the black, sable pictures and hang pictures of joy and gladness, of things which will encourage, cheer and increase my power. Everything which ever handicapped my life, which has made me uncomfortable and unhappy, shall be expelled, at least for this day. So that when night comes I can say, 'I have lived today!'"

BENEFITS OF SAFETY WORK

When the Motives Are Purely Humanitarian the Best Results Have Been Attained.

In an article in Safety Engineering it is suggested by George A. Cowes, manager of the bureau of safety of the Utica Mutual Compensation corporation, that the fundamental motive in establishing safety work in an industrial plant should be humanitarianism. He writes:

"Manufacturing corporations in all parts of the United States have testified that efficient safety organizations, as conducted in their factories, have, on an average, reduced the number of accidents in their plants at least 50 per cent. In some plants accident records have been reduced as much as 65 per cent. The industrial accident board of Massachusetts has found that, through the organization of efficient safety committees the employees of Massachusetts may eventually save on each injury an average of $40. Statistics show that such organizations have saved at least 50 per cent of the losses in wages sustained by employees on account of preventable accidents. Employers may expect, therefore, ultimately to save the entire cost of insurance on the preventable cases. At least 60 to 70 per cent of all accidents are preventable. No employer should, if he desires to make it a success, organize a safety committee solely for pecuniary gain. Humanitarianism should be the primary motive to inspire employers to perfect such an organization."

JNO. C. DUFFY ANNOUNCES

Sets Forth His Views on The Issues of The Campaign.

IN RACE FOR ATTY. GENERAL

Believes Financial Legislation
The First Matter That Needs Attention.

To the Democrats of Kentucky:

I wish to announce myself a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General in the August primary election, and because of recent developments I wish to define my views in a general way upon questions affecting the future of the party.

As a Democrat and as a candidate for public office, I am very greatly interested in the success of the Democratic party in the November election. I am opposed to making State-wide prohibition an issue in this campaign for State officers or the test of any candidate's Democracy or of his fitness for office in the Democratic party. I am not interested in the whisky business, either directly or indirectly, nor identified with it in any way whatever.

As a member of the last session of the General Assembly I voted for the 25 per cent. bill perfecting the county unit bill, and also voted against the sale of whisky in my own county under that law as perfected, but I do not believe that it will bring any good to the Democratic party or to the cause of temperance in this State to make State-wide prohibition an issue in this campaign for the election of State officers. When the people want this question submitted to them they can have it done through their representatives in the General Assembly, which is the only body having jurisdiction of the subject matter. Since the Governor has no power of veto over a measure of this kind or resolution submitting an amendment to the Constitution, there is no reason why his position on such questions should be made a test of his fitness for the office of Governor. There are many reasons why State wide prohibition should not be the test of the election of other State officers who have nothing whatever to do with the submission of this question to a vote of the people, unless in a ministerial way.

I am of the opinion that a bitter discussion of this question may prove disastrous to the success of the party in November and prevent the enactment of much-needed legislation in the next General Assembly, as it did in the last one. There is no need of seeking this new issue, which it is admitted can only be settled in years to come, when we now have questions which demand the most serious and immediate consideration by the next administration.

The State is now nearly $3,000,000 in debt and constantly growing deeper in debt. This situation is of first importance and demands a revision of our tax laws in such a way as to relieve the present indebtedness and to provide for the necessary expenses of the State government in the future. The power of the corrupt lobby at Frankfort must be destroyed by the enactment of an effective anti-lobby bill and an anti-pass bill in compliance with the Constitution of the State. An anti-trust law should be enacted in accord with the decisions of the Supreme Court and of our own Court of Appeals. The question of prison contract labor will have to be solved in the near future. A law for the reasonable regulation of railroads and other public service corporations should be enacted. A more perfect system of public education must be provided, and the great question of good roads or better roads, besides many other problems, must be solved by the people of this State.

The Democratic party having provided local option laws under which 106 of the 120 counties of the State have voted dry and having neglected all other questions. I am of the opinion that these great questions should have our next consideration. Certainly the condition of our State government, the public roads, the public schools and the material prosperity of our people are questions closely affecting public morals, and if State-wide prohibition is made an issue it will prevent proper consideration of these questions and will accomplish no immediate good. With this brief statement of my position on this question so seriously threatening the future of our party and the people of the State, I submit my candidacy to the Democratic voters of Kentucky. JOHN C. DUFFY.

GOOD ROADS

MAKING DIRT ROADS BETTER
Foreman Must Know What, How and When to Plow—Avoid Building Up Too Much at One Time.

(By E. VAN BENTHUYSEN.)

With a sandy soil and a subsoil of clay, or clay and gravel, plow deep so as to raise and mix the clay with the surface soil and sand. The combination forms a sand-clay road at trifling expense.

If the road be entirely of sand a mistake will be made if it is plowed, unless clay can be added. Such plowing would merely deepen the sand, and at the same time break up the small amount of hard surface material which may have formed.

If the subsoil is clay, and the surface scant in sand or gravel, plowing should not be resorted to, as it would result in a clay surface rather than one of sand or gravel.

A road foreman must know not only what to plow and what not to plow, but how and when to plow.

If the road is of the kind which, according to the above instructions, should be plowed over its whole width, the best method is to run the first furrow in the middle of the road and work out to the sides, thus forming a crown. Results from such plowing are greatest in spring or early summer.

In ditches a plow can be used to good advantage, but should be followed by a scraper or grader. To make wide, deep ditches nothing better than the ordinary drag scraper has yet been devised. For hauls under 100 feet, or in making "fills," it is especially serviceable.

It is a mistake, however, to attempt to handle long-haul material with this scraper, as the wheel-scraper is better adapted to such work. For hauls of more than 800 feet, a wagon should be used. The machine most generally used in road work is the grader or road machine. This machine is especially useful in smoothing and crowning the road and in opening ditches.

A clay subsoil under a thin coating of soil should not be disturbed with a grader. It is also a mistake to use a grader indiscriminately and to pull material from ditches upon a sandy road.

Not infrequently turf, soil and silt from ditch bottoms are piled in the middle of the road in a ridge, making mudholes a certainty. It is important in using a grader to avoid building up the road too much at one time. A road gradually built up by frequent use of the grader will last better than if completed at one operation.

The foreman frequently thinks his road must be high in the first instance. He piles up material from ten inches to a foot in depth, only to learn, with the arrival of the first rain, that he has furnished the material for so many inches of mud. All material should be brought up in thin layers, each layer well puddled and firmly packed by a roller or traffic before the next is added. A common mistake is to crown too high with the road machine on a narrow road.

The split-log drag should be used to fill the ruts and smooth the road when not too badly washed. The drag possesses great merit and is so simple in construction and operation that every farmer should have one.

Road Building Habit.

The road building habit is confined to no one locality. It has a footing in 48 states. All classes take to it.

For Best Results.

The little attention that the earth road needs must be given promptly and at the proper time if the best results are to be obtained.

Good Roads Advocates.

It is gratifying to observe that every owner of an automobile immediately becomes an advocate of good roads.

The Road Drag.

The road drag is the simplest and least expensive contrivance yet devised for maintaining earth roads.

FIRST CASE OF KIND

Germany to Be Held "To a Strict Accountability."

Washington, May 3.—Press reports of the torpedoing of the American steamer Gulfight and the loss of her captain and some members of the crew created a stir in official circles here.

If first reports are borne out, the attack on the Gulfight constitutes the first case of an American ship struck by a torpedo with the consequent loss of lives. Two have been sunk by mines, the responsibility for which never has been fixed, and an American, Leon C. Thresher, was drowned when the British ship Fala-ba was torpedoed.

The United States government has just completed its investigation of the Thresher case, but in view of the direct attack on an American vessel now reported, it is probable that both incidents will be dealt with in whatever diplomatic action is taken.

It was recalled that in the note sent to Germany in answer to Germany's proclamation of a sea war zone the Washington government stated that it would hold Germany "to a strict accountability" for the loss of any American lives or vessels.

The course of the United States in the case of the Gulfight is not likely to be determined for several days, as some time probably will be required to get the facts. The possibility of any action other than a demand for damages is considered remote because of the belief of officials that the attack on the Gulfight probably will be found to have been accidental.

ONE'S STANDARD OF CONDUCT

Beggar's Attitude Not Greatly Different From That Taken by Many Men in Higher Positions.

A wretched beggar, whose "I Am Blind" sign was a lie, was arrested with several companions who made a specialty of preying on churchgoers. He explained that he only practiced fraud on week days and begged honestly on the Sabbath.

A great deal of moralizing and of cynicism might be expended on this old man's singular ethics. Yet each person has his standard of conduct, and includes in it reservations no less inconsistent than the beggar's delicate attitude toward Sunday. We are prone to be proud of things we do not do, rather than of our positive goodness. Not stopping at that, we judge those whose code permits them wider latitude than that we enjoy.

The faking beggar clings to a negative virtue, founds his sole claim to a self-respect on that. Many another, dwelling on planes far above the beggar, yields to the same naive tendency.—Detroit News

Our roof leaks, our cellar fills with water every time it rains, our radiators thump, our furnace is too small for the house, its appetite is too large for our income, our gutters have rusted away, the porch sags, the house hasn't had a new coat of paint for seven years, the wall paper hangs loose in every room and the chimney is shorter after every windstorm." "Why in the world don't you move?" "Because we can't find another house with a hall that our long oriental runner will fit."

Heroes of the Coast.

It was on a stormy March night in 1807 that the first lifeboat on the American coast battled through the raging surf and picked up a half dozen sailors from a stranded schooner. In 1848 congress recognized the noble work of this society by granting it an appropriation of $10,000. Then the government organized a small service of its own on Cape Cod. But not till the winter of 1871 did it put its heart ardently into a national life-saving service. Today there is a little army of 2,000 superb but silent heroes who nightly for eight months of the year patrol the longest and one of the most dangerous coasts in the world.
